

The supermarket challenge

“I just have to use my car to take the kids and get the weeks worth of groceries”

THINK AGAIN!!!

The supermarket challenge will pit three bikes (with various home-made and/or commercially available trailers), against three cars to travel on three specified routes (2km-5km) to a supermarket. They will all carry one or two pre-schoolers from Cathedral Square* to their particular supermarket where they will load up with a weeks worth of groceries (from a specified list), then return to the Square. Upon arrival the eggs will be inspected for damage, the icecream eaten to test it's frozen-ness, and a count made of plastic bags used.

The event will take place on Friday 24th February 2006 starting at 4 pm and ending around 5.30 pm.
